

Thomas Barnett is co-chair of the global Antitrust & Consumer Law Practice Group at Covington & Burling. He specializes in antitrust and competition law practice and works closely with the firm's white collar practice on criminal antitrust enforcement and investigative matters. He recently served as Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division. He headed the Antitrust Division from 2005 to 2008, having previously served in the Division as Deputy Assistant Attorney General for Civil Enforcement from 2004 to 2005. Prior to 2004, Mr. Barnett was an associate and then partner at Covington. He also has served as an adjunct professor for antitrust and sports law at Georgetown University Law Center and as a co-teacher of an advanced antitrust seminar at the University of Virginia Law School.