

Peter-Carlo Lehrell

A jolly German, Peter-Carlo Lehrell founded FIPRA International ten years ago this month and is Chairman of the FIPRA Network. From its European base, FIPRA expanded rapidly and the group today operates in more than 50 countries, including in the US, Australia, China, Korea, Turkey and Russia. Peter-Carlo has advised some of the world's largest companies, not only on their general public affairs, but also in his specialised area of competition policy on some of the largest monopoly cases and merger & acquisition transactions in recent years. His current or recent clients include Pfizer, General Electric, United Technologies, AMD, BP and Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines for which he and his family have a special affection. After an education at Harrow in England and the United States, Peter-Carlo worked at the European Parliament, then in finance and in insurance, always in functions close to government relations and public affairs. Peter-Carlo is married to Belinda and has 4 children the oldest of which is about to be 10. Peter-Carlo is fluent in French, German, Italian and English.
