

Richard T. Rapp
Special Consultant, NERA Economic Consulting

Richard Rapp served as President of NERA, the international economic consulting firm, from 1988 through 2005. He left this role at the end of 2005 to focus his full attention on consulting work in the economics of antitrust, intellectual property, and complex commercial litigation.

Dr. Rapp specializes in the economics of:

- High-technology antitrust
- Market power
- Complex business valuation and damages estimation
- Licensing, standard-setting, and royalty rate determination
- Intangible asset valuation

He has presented studies and testified before the US Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the Federal Communications Commission, the International Trade Commission, and numerous Federal District Courts.

Prior to joining NERA Dr. Rapp was an Associate Professor at the State University of New York at Stony Brook and an award-winning author of books and articles on trade rivalry and economic decline.

Dr. Rapp's recent writings deal with the economics of innovation, standard-setting and the antitrust treatment of future goods. His articles have been published in Antitrust Law Journal, Journal of World Intellectual Property, Antitrust Report, Regulation, and Journal of Economic Integration among others.
