

Edward Schwartz, Shearman & Sterling LLP

Edward Schwartz is a partner in the Washington DC office of Shearman & Sterling, where he specializes in antitrust and litigation. Mr. Schwartz has 26 years of experience representing clients in antitrust cases and other complex disputes. During that time, he has successfully defended his clients in class action and other cases alleging a variety of antitrust claims, including conspiratorial conduct (price-fixing, market allocation, tying and exclusive dealing); unilateral conduct (monopolization, monopsonization and predatory pricing); price discrimination and others. He also represents clients before the FTC and DOJ Antitrust Division in merger, civil non-merger and criminal investigations, and frequently counsels clients on a variety of antitrust issues.
