

HILARY M. WANDALL

Hilary M. Wandall
Global Privacy Leader
Merck & Co., Inc.

Hilary Wandall is global privacy leader and head of the Privacy Office at Merck & Co., Inc. In this role, she oversees the company's global privacy program and has responsibility for company compliance globally with privacy and data protection laws, regulations, multilateral frameworks, privacy-related ethical obligations and company privacy policies and standards. She also is a member of the Global Compliance leadership team at Merck. Hilary most recently was senior attorney and corporate privacy officer at Merck.

Hilary joined Merck in 1993 in the antiviral basic research area of the company's research division. Since that time, she has held positions of increasing responsibility in research, marketing communications, privacy and corporate law. She began working on privacy matters in 1999 and drove the development of the first Merck corporate Internet privacy policy for company web sites in 2000.

Hilary was elected chair of the board of directors of the International Pharmaceutical Privacy Consortium (IPPC) in 2010. She served as vice chair of the IPPC in 2009. She is the author of several publications on health privacy issues. She earned her Certified Information Privacy Professional designation in 2005.

Hilary earned a J.D. from Temple University, Beasley School of Law and an M.B.A. from Temple University, Fox School of Business. She earned a B.S. in biology from Moravian College and is a Master of Bioethics candidate at the University of Pennsylvania. She is admitted to the Bar in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.